

THE PARENTS' ROLE

Quality child care involves not only the child but also a close working relationship between the caregiver and parents. The parents' responsibility in establishing the relationship includes:

- Providing the caregiver with complete enrollment information including current home telephone number and numbers where they can be contacted during the day, telephone numbers of person(s) in case of an emergency (friend, neighbor, relative), and names of authorized persons with permission to take the child from the family child care home.
- Providing caregiver current and up-to-date immunization and health records.
- Informing the caregiver of special needs the child may have including: food allergies and dislikes, problems with naptime, toilet habits, favorite toys, and games.
- Asking the caregiver about his or her qualifications and experience in child care.
- Discussing with the caregiver the family child care home's capability to provide activities that meet the needs of all children.
- Making sure the family child care home and equipment are accessible to and appropriate for children with special needs.
- Discussing with the caregiver the family child care home's policy for disciplining children.
- Asking about child care transportation policy. Is it the responsibility of the parents, or does the family child care home provide transportation?
- Asking about the family child care home's hours of operation (including days and times).
- Making sure to be on time when picking up children from the family child care home.
- Notifying the family child care home provider if they are going to be late to pick up their child.
- Never bringing a sick child to the family child care home.
- Notifying the family child care home provider if the child is sick or if the family is going out of town and the child will not be attending.
- Finding out the cost of child care and what this includes. For example, are food, diapers, laundry, toys and trips extra, or are they included in the fee?
- Finding out what the payment schedule is. Does the parent pay in advance or at the end of the week?
- Making sure the child is dressed adequately for the weather, in clean clothing, and that he/she has an extra set of clothing.

- Asking the caregiver the procedure for dispensing medicine and having signed authorization for caregiver to dispense medicine.
- Participating in the family child care home's special activities and attending conferences.
- Talking with the caregiver about any concerns regarding the child, for example: cuts, scratches, bruises or other injuries which may have occurred at the family child care home as well as discussing the child's progress and participation while at the family child care home.
- Encouraging the children to talk about their experiences in child care.
- Visiting the family child care home during the time the child is in care to observe different activities in which the child is involved.
- Familiarizing themselves with the child care standards used to license the family child care home.

Choosing an appropriate child care program is an extremely important decision for both the child and parents. The family situation as well as the child's individual needs must be considered. The child's age and developmental level are important when selecting the program that will best suit his or her needs.

This brochure provides information about family child care homes and large family child care homes to parents, physicians, health care professionals, teachers, social workers, and others working with children. It summarizes the activities which should be available in a quality family child care home and large family child care homes programs, the minimum standards used to license family child care homes and large family child care homes, and the qualities of a good child care provider and the parents' role in working with the family child care home and large family child care homes providers.

WHAT IS A FAMILY CHILD CARE HOME?

A family child care home means child care provided in a place of residence of a family, person, or persons who receive children from more than one (1) additional household, with or without compensation, for the purpose of providing childcare and training. No more than eight (8) children under thirteen (13) years of age who are not related to such person or persons by blood, marriage, or adoption may receive care at any given time. A family child care home shall include household children under 13 years of age when on the premises of the family child care home or on a field trip with children enrolled in care. A maximum of ten children total, of which, a maximum of eight children are in Child Care Status. Of the 10 total children, no more than 5 are pre-school age, and of those 5, no more than 3 are under 18 months of age, and of those three, no more than 2 are under 12 months of age. The provider's license or temporary permit will specifically state the license capacity. For the purpose of licensure, a family child care home does not include a provider household caring for children from one (1) additional household.

WHAT IS A QUALITY CHILD CARE PROGRAM?

Quality child care offers the child healthy social and educational experiences under qualified supervision in a safe, nurturing and stimulating environment. In such a home, children are not only well cared for, but also are encouraged to participate in daily activities appropriate for their ages and individual developmental levels.

Through these activities each child will have the opportunity to develop social skills, build independence and self-esteem.

To provide a child with a sense of security, family child care homes should provide a daily schedule that has some flexibility. This schedule should include:

- Indoor and outdoor play.
- Scheduled rest time.
- Active and quiet play.
- Varied early literacy experiences with language and books.
- Activities that are child initiated but caregiver facilitated.
- Organized and free activities.
- Play with other children and solitary play.
- Activities which promote imaginative play and problem-solving.
- Time to listen to music, play instruments, and sing.
- Time to run, exercise, and develop coordination.
- Time for art activities.
- Special time for individual adult attention and interaction.
- Time for meals and snacks.
- Activities which encourage exploration of the natural environment.

A quality family child care home should provide age appropriate toys and games such as grasping toys for infants, nesting cups for toddlers, puzzles, small building toys, pouring experiences and safe scissors for older children. Building toys, such as blocks and accessories, dolls, toy dishes and dress-up clothes enhance imaginary play. All children should have easy access to safe toys.

Every Licensed Family Child Care Home Must:

- Have a valid license that bears the distinctive seal of Pinellas County and is posted in a conspicuous place within the family child care home. The license states date of issue, expiration, and capacity.
